Finding a Biological Dentist

Biological dentistry is an approach to dental treatment, primarily caring for patients' health and safety from both a conventional as well as "alternative healthcare" point of view. It is sometimes called holistic dentistry. It acknowledges and deals with the whole body and well-being of the patient, not just his or her teeth.

In biological dentistry, biocompatible materials are used to reduce toxicity - amalgam use is avoided. Amalgam removal is a common biological dentistry treatment. Detoxification, especially of residual mercury deposits in body tissues from amalgam is often done. All root canals are recognized as harbingers of infection ultimately compromising the immune system. Both mercury and the infection lurking in cavitations and root canals can contribute to degenerative disease that predisposes to cancer. Several eminent alternative cancer physicians stress that a dental cleanup of mercury, root canals, cavitations and metal in the mouth is essential to get well. Learn more about biological dentistry in this section and find out how it can help you to take charge of your health.

1.	The Multidiscipline Alliance	The Multidiscipline Alliance is a group of physicians and dentists who are sworn to apply a brand new concept to the practice of dentistry and medicine. FIRST, DO NO HARM. “For years, Dr. Hal Huggins [the founder of biological dentistry], referred dentists who had attended some of his seminars. But as time went on, many people called him back to complain that they were worse off than prior to having their amalgams removed. Investigation determined that many of these dentists were leaving out the majority of the Protocol recommended by Dr. Huggins and many were placing root canals. Root canals are far worse at creating degenerative and autoimmune diseases than mercury from amalgam. Dr. Huggins felt that he was directing people from the frying pan into the inferno of autoimmune disease so he stopped referring. To meet the public’s increasing demands for “safe” dentistry, Dr. Huggins started a Multi-Discipline Alliance of professionals and therapists who will “first do no harm”. Dr. Huggins and his team train these individual offices to practice the	Go to http://www.drhuggins.com/default.asp?PageName=Alliance%20Member%20Note Or Telephone: 1-866-948-4638 for a referral to a biological dentist near you.

This eventually became the Art of Dentistry, when no metal existed on any surface of any tooth, and the patient could not visibly distinguish between fillings or crowns and their natural teeth. After seeing the "light" in this new age of dentistry, the patients' trust and comfort became the main focus. I offer conscious IV sedation, which allows me to finish the dental work in one appointment. The IV Conscious Sedation Procedure was first preformed at our clinic in 1998 at Puerto Vallarta, Mexico under the guidance of Dr. Hal Huggins. He observed that with this sedation, the patient felt great and healed faster, no matter how extensive the surgery. And, the patients with a dental phobia returned, feeling a new confidence and security the next time they had to sit in the dental chair."	Dr Javier Morales P., D.D.S, Biologic Dentist Calle 6ta. 11.	Eric Davis, Australia	A Total Dental Revision (TDR) is the most important intervention for the vast majority of patients. For many people, dental toxins represent the greatest daily exposure to toxicity. This toxin exposure seems to be the greatest cause and aggravator of nearly all degenerative diseases, especially cancer. Mercury, incompatible dental metals, cavitations, dental implants, periodontal disease, and root canals must all be vigorously addressed.	Go to http://www.ericdavisdental.com

Innovative Test Kit

This test kit is great for those who want to investigate alternative treatments and their potential effects to help get rid of your cancer. Paul Winter has an informative website for complete information if you are not familiar with these treatments.

#	What	How It Can Help	Contact Details
1.	Alternative Cancer Treatment Test Kit	Paul Winter 's Test Kit provides samples of 12 well-known alternative cancer treatments. The idea is that through using muscle testing or neurofeedback, your body will indicate to you which substance it "needs" the most. The testing will also identify treatments that you should not combine. After you have identified the substance that will have most impact for your cancer, test each additional substance in turn to see if it might also be used. The Kit is based on the principles of kinesiology and homeopathy. These are new to most people but some, like the British Royal Family, have been staunch supporters for years. Keep an open mind and look at some of the suggested background reading at Paul's site.	For more information and to order a Test Kit for $35, go to http://alternativecancer.us/ak.htm (For an additional $14, you can buy a muscle tester and do this testing at home.) This is very good value when you consider that buying the minimum quantity of each substance would cost you around $800. One buyer's feedback: "We took the test kit to our naturopath on Thursday and he used muscle testing (fingers) on my husband to determine that 5 of the treatments would be beneficial. The Paw Paw provided the strongest response. My husband (now 56 years old) has been dealing with an aggressive prostate cancer for the last 8 years. His radiation seed implant therapy did not work. We have been using alternative treatments for 6 years with quite good success, but his PSA is climbing again. Recent tests showed high cholesterol, high bad cholesterol, high blood sugar, and bad liver numbers. The naturopath said all of that shows bad liver function, which was confirmed by muscle testing. He then determined what herbal tinctures, supplements and homeopathics would best address the liver function problem. Then, after testing the kit treatments, put each of the 5 "good" treatments with the liver function treatments and found that the paw paw worked the best with them. We have ordered the paw paw and our expectation is my husband's health will be back on track. What a marvelous web site you have, and the test kit is a wonderful tool. But I do agree with our naturopath that you need to address the underlying body system malfunctions in addition to adding a treatment to treat the cancer. ..."

1.	How Successful are Conventional Cancer Treatments?	This e-book is an analysis of the scientific studies used as a basis for conventional treatments, and a lot more. Read this e-book before you have surgery, radiation or chemotherapy. Be fully informed before you consent to treatment! Some points to consider: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Conventional treatment for breast cancer does not appear to improve long-term survival rates – and may actually hasten relapse or death. ▪ There is no difference in the survival rates for those who had surgery for prostate cancer and controls who did not! ▪ Keep Your Breasts! Mastectomy survival rates are NOT better than for less radical solutions ▪ "Cancer drugs are only effective in a quarter of patients" Read the supporting research data for these and many more topics in How Successful Are Conventional Cancer Treatments?	Order it as part of the full set of informative e-books and Reports from http://www.naturalcancertreatments.com
2.	Questioning Chemotherapy, Dr Ralph Moss	"The essential point of the book is that one must question the measure of success in chemotherapy. Oncologists have tended to equate an increasing percentage of "responses" with progress. However, responses are generally measurements of tumor shrinkage, for as little as one month's duration. One cannot automatically assume that a response - even a complete response - will lead to increased survival. One must look for increased survival. Yet the number of cancers for which life prolongation	This book may ordered from http://www.amazon.com

(I do bend over backwards to point these out, when they occur.) Questioning Chemotherapy is intended to help patients by providing them with a critical perspective on this now dominant modality." Living Proof : A Medical Mutiny by Michael Gearin-Tosh http://www.amazon.com	A 54 year old man steered through conflicting advice and between the medicine he rejects and the doctors he honors. "I was told I had [myeloma] cancer and that I must expect to die soon. Almost eight years later I still do my job and enjoy life. I have not had conventional treatment." He probed the experts' words and the meaning behind medical phrases. He tried to relate what each doctor said, and did not say, to the doctor's own temperament. He listened to much advice, especially that of three women friends, each with a different point of view, one a doctor. They challenged him. They challenged medical advice. They challenged one another. He finally rejected the proposed conventional treatment after an associate consulted a cancer statistician who warned, "If your friend touches chemotherapy, he's a goner." The treatment that he credits with saving his life he found in A Cancer Therapy, by Max Gerson, a doctor who died in 1958.
Dressed To Kill: The Link between Breast Cancer and Bras by Sydney Ross Singer and Soma Grismaijer http://www.amazon.com	This book reveals the link between bras and breast cancer, explaining how the restrictive nature of bras inhibits the lymphatic system (an internal network of vessels and nodes that flushes wastes from the body), and noting that the correlation is four times greater than smoking is to lung cancer. Women who wear tight-fitting bras 24 hours a day are 125 times more likely to have breast cancer than women who do not wear bras at all.
